THE CONVENTION TO-DAY.

Names of the Delegates from Shelby County-Wards and Districts-Instructions of the Committee.

Put None but the Best Men on Guard-The People Demand this Action by the Convention.

We present below all the matter bear ing upon the convention to be held at Bolivar to-day for the selection of a con-gressman from this district, including the instructions and suggestions of the county committee and the names of the delegates elected at the recent primary delegates elected at the recent primary elections. We have to say, using the advice given the Davidson county Item-corracy, by the Union and American, that the nomination to-day of any mere political back or industrious office-seeker would be not only a blunder in itself, but might injure the rest of the ticket materially, and possibly drag other good men to defeat. We can hardly expect as active a canvass for November as for August. Many men who were drawn for August. Many men who were-drawn out to the poils in August are liable to relapse into lethargy unless we attract them with a ticket that commands their respect. There are still others, The Shelby county Democratic convention, to elect candidates for the legislature, will meet at the Exposition in this city next Tuesday.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Meeting Testerday-The Freight and Tax Questions—the Texas Frem Association to be Secrived.

The Delivery of Cotton-Interesting Deand Port Royal Railroad-Etc. The meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday evening was well at-tended by the cotton and grocery men of the city. Vice-President Porter pre-sided, and the efficient secretary, Mr.

Toof, was, as usual, at his post.
The freight question, which receives attention at every meeting, was intro-duced by the secretary reading several le ters. The letters were considered satleaters. The letters were considered sat-isfactory and the report was adopted.

Mr. Goyer, chairman of the commit-tee on merchants' tax, reported that the committee had been unable to accom-plish anything, the State constitution being such that the tax cannot be re-peated until the constitution is amended. Report received and committee dis-

Secretary Toof read a communication from the press association of Texas, stating that the members of that body would go on an excursion to Lookout mountain and stop one day (next Sun-day) in Memphis.

Major Rambaut moved that a com-Major Rambaut moved that a committee of seven be appointed to receive the excursionists. The motion was carried and the chair appointed the following gentlemen: G. V. Rambaut, W. F. Boyle, J. Harvey Mathes, H. H. Higbee, J. J. Busby, A. T. Lacey and C. P. Hunt.

In advocating his resolution, Mr. Hadden claimed that it was unjust to deprive merchants of the privilege of having their cotton hauled on their own

Alderman Metcalf then indulged in a own expense, passed. drays; he and others owned drays, shipped goods to the depot, and would have cotton hauled by the drays when returning from the depot; but were told that the transfer company would charge for the delivery of the cotton, no matter who hauled it away. He wanted a com-mittee appointed to inquire into the exbediency of changing this state of Major Ross, superintendent of the Major Ross, superintendent of the Charleston road, explained how and why the contract for delivering cotton was made. The cotton exchange had recommended letting out the contract to the lowest hidder; he advertised for bids, and gave the contract to the best hidder. The managers of the road had made extraordinary efforts to have cot-ton brought to Memphis; they wanted it all brought bere. In winter the roads were bad, and the draymen failed to carry away the cotton; the yards were blocked with the bales; the company notified the merchants but they failed to have the hauling done; the marks became obligarated, and consignees did not know that own catter when they not know their own cotton when they saw it. Giving the hauling to a transfer company, who gave a heavy bond, had worked well with other roads, and he did not understand why so much was said about the Charleston road making

Mr. Mallory said he was one of the merchants who had been notified to remove their cotton. He went to the deout, and could not get his cotton away apidly, because the checking could ony be done at one gate. The drays were kept in a line, each one waiting for the other's load to be checked. He thought if the proper facilities were offered by the railroad, the cotton could be hauled by the drays.

Calls were made for W. B. Greenlaw, who proceeded to give his experience about the removing of cotton from the railroads; he had found the promiscuous drayage business a failure; he hoped the gentlemen would harmonize and work together, for he was anxious that the cotton should be brought here; had been bringing it over three bundred miles for three dollars a bale, and would bring it for less rather than let it go to St. Louis; before the contract for hanling was given out the company lost in one year two hundred and seventy bales; last season they lost none; when the weather was bad the transfer men were compelled to haul or forfeit their bonds.

After a great deal had been said for and against the contract system, Mr. Hadden's resolution was adopted, and the committee apointed as follows: D. Hadden, Napoleon Hill, J. J. Busby, V. W. Guy, W. P. Proudfit, J. L. Weil-ford and James Steele.

Mr. Robertson Topp offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, by the chamber of commerce of the city of Memphis, That we highly sppreciate and approve of the project of opening a channel of communication by railway from Leavenworth City, via Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham, to the southern Atlantic seaboard

Letters were read setting forth the advantages of the supposed road from Leavenworth, via Kansas City, Mem-phis and Birmingham, to Port Royal, South Carolina. The route would be much the shortest and best from the west to the Atlantic coast. He thought the chamber of commerce here, and those of the other points mentioned, should encourage such an enterprise, and memortalize congress in its behalf.

The resolutions were adopted.

The chair then announced the following committees: On Nominations—J. C. Neely, Jerome Hill, J. M. Goodbar, B. J. Semmes, F. S. Davis, J. M. James and J. L. Norton, On Examination of Books—F. M. Nelson, H. Furstenheim and A. D. Langstaff. The chamber then adjourned till next Thursday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. Metcalf was allowed to talk on. Several sealed bids for feeding the horses of the fire department under the last requisition for this month were opened. J. Shelton's & Co.'s bid was received, it being one dollar and twenty-five cents per one hundred pounds for hay, fifty-nine cents per bushel for oats, one dollar and ten cents per one hundred pounds for wheat bran.

Messrs. Metcalf and Dent next began an oratorical polemic, the former legislator charging that said Dent had said he would not favor the plan unless the work began at the elevator. Mr. Dent denied this emphatically. The chair-man, Mr. Hillsman, finally concluded the affair out of order. Mr. Dent, how-ever, was allowed to proceed.

BUSINESS PROM OTHER BOARD. Thos. Buchanan and T. B. Beecher's petition was tabled. The council resolution upon the subject was adopted.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Sept. 7, 1874. Honorable Board of General Council: Range City, Memphis and Birmingham, to the southern Atlantic seabourd at Port Royal, in South Carolina, as set forth in the memorial of the "Eastern and Western transportation company," and that we recommend the same to the favorable consideration of the congress of the United States.

Resolved, That the secretary of this board be requested to forward to Winborn Lawfon, Esq., of Charleston, South Carolina, a copy of the above resolutions, and that the members of this board and the citizens generally be requested to sign the memorial; and when signed, that the same be forwarded to the speaker of the house of representatives, with a request that he will lay the same value," and that "no one species of property shall be taxed according to its value," and that "no one species of property from which a tax may be collected shall be taxed higher than any other species of property of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value," and will tend in time to a material reduction of the rates of the same value, and will tend in time to a material reduction in favor of any GENTLEMEN: I most respectfully call our State constitution in favor of any particular interests or branches of busiparticular interests or branches of business, we can certainly legislate against inequalities in valuation, and by assessing all property and values and increasing on our tax books the aggregate valuation of assessed property, eventually reduce the rates of inxation, so that high rates will cease to be a cause of complaint by a tax-ridden people. It is high rates will cease to be a cause of complaint by a tax-ridden people. It is also to be admitted that a great deal of property has heretofore escaped taxation. The aim and object of this ordinance is, by the appointment of separate assessors for personal property, to perfect the assessment of this species of property, so that the burdens of taxation will be more causily distributed. Foundilation more equally distributed. Equalization is, however, the great end, aim and object hoped to be attained. The ordinance is submitted for your consideration. Respectfully, JOHN LOAGUE, Mayor.

The ordinance referred to divides the city into three districts, with an assessor all the assessments on property and cap-ital invested, and their work shall be submitted to a board of equalization,
